

last twenty-four hours we had repeated meetings with all the people that have traditionally opposed the right to privacy. Within the last couple of hours they have agreed and have drafted and we will have it ready hopefully for the Judiciary Committee sometime tomorrow, I think, Senator Nichol, is what I heard, what you were saying, a reasonable proposal in the entire area of right to privacy. I am saying this on the floor and publicly so there is a record so that if one of them forgot their agreement it would be reflected and recorded somewhat now. Talking to Mr. Walt Radcliffe representing the media, talking to Mr. Larry Ruth representing Credit Bureaus or whatever they are, talking to Mr. Phil Berkebile representing the media, talking to Mr. Bill Brandt and Bob Harris representing bankers and financing institutions, all of them have agreed that they will withdraw their perennial, annual, everlasting opposition to the overall concept of a right to privacy and will allow 394 in the form that has been worked out to come to the floor and hopefully there will be no problem in passing such legislation once the Judiciary finishes the fine tuning. As you heard Senator Beutler and others recognize the need for such legislation, this is the first time that the possibility, probability exists. Therefore, the people involved on the abortion thing have agreed now to go along with this amendment and do it that way. Does that make sense?

SPEAKER MARVEL: Senator Kelly, do you have any other comments? It is your amendment before...there are three other lights on. I want to recognize them. Do you have any other...?

SENATOR KELLY: Yes, I do, Mr. Speaker, is that in the reconsideration rule on page 41 of this rule book which is section 7, it says that you have to put a reconsideration motion in the same day or the next legislative day and it goes on to say, a motion to reconsider must be disposed of by the Legislature within five legislative days after making the same or it shall be defeated and the point that would be is that this certainly allows latitude for this motion to be acted upon sometime within the next five legislative days as I would read that rule and as I remember also historically that is the way we have handled these reconsideration motions.

SPEAKER MARVEL: Okay, the Chair would make this observation, that what you read is correct but by the same token this does not stand in the way of the advancement of the bill.
